Mark Lane's Father Dies in New Jersey

Harry A. Lane, 87, of Leonia, N.J., father of Mark Lane, Memphis author and attorney, died yesterday in a Leonia drug store after suffering a heart attack.

Mr. Lane fell while shopping and was revived briefly by drug store personnel, a spokesman for Mark Lane said.

Mr. Lane was a retired Certified Public Accountant and was a native of Pittsburgh.

He also leaves a daughter, Dr. Judith Ann Lane, with whom he lived, and another son, Lawrence Lane of Queens, N.Y.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.
